Improving your Safety Management System is an ongoing task for every adventure and outdoor operator. To be effective, it must be constantly reviewed and adjusted to reflect learnings from your own operation and the wider industry.

TIA is running six Adventure Safety Workshops throughout New Zealand during April. These practical workshops are valuable for ALL operators working in the adventure tourism and commercial outdoor sector (not only those covered by the adventure activities regulations).

You will learn:

- Ways to improve your Safety Management System
- Current industry good practice
- How to develop a proactive safety culture and continually improve it

We have drawn on the experience of operators, auditors and technical experts to build on the content delivered in our 2015 Adventure Safety Workshops. New focus areas include incident management and staff competency.

So even if you have attended before, you will learn new information. Bring your leadership team as part of your preparations for next season.

Dates and locations

- Paihia, 11 April, 9am-1pm
- Nelson, 12 April, 8.45am-12.30pm
- Auckland, 13 April, 9am-1pm
- Rotorua, 14 April, 9am-1pm
- Franz Josef, 18 April, 1pm-5pm
- Queenstown, 20 April, 9am-1pm

The workshops will be run by TIA Safety Systems Workshop Facilitator Chris Warburton.
